International Symposium on Advanced Mechanical & Power Engineering

6th-9th November 2025

Shanghai, China

Call for Paper and Participation

We are delighted to announce that the International Symposium on Advanced Mechanical and Power Engineering (ISAMPE2025) is scheduled to take place at University of Shanghai for Science and Technology (USST), Shanghai, China, from November 6th to 9th, 2025. This year, School of Energy and Power Engineering and School of Mechanical Engineering of USST are hosting the symposium in collaboration with the University of Fukui (UF), the Pukyong National University (PKNU), and the Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS).

We cordially invite your participation in ISAMPE 2025 and look forward to sharing enriching symposia amidst friendship. The entire ISAMPE 2025 Organizing Committee eagerly anticipates your presence at USST in Shanghai, China.

History

The first ISAMPE was dated back to 2001, originating from an academic and student exchange initiative between UF and PKNU in mechanical engineering. In 2005, USST became a part of this collaborative effort, expanding its scope. Recently, in 2023, UMS expressed eagerness to join as a new member of ISAMPE. It is a great honor for USST to hold the symposium once again. The foundational principle of ISAMPE remains steadfast: to provide a platform for exploring cutting-edge advancements in advanced mechanical and power engineering, thereby influencing the future trajectory of the field and its education.

The organizing committee at USST is diligently preparing for this landmark event, crafting an engaging and informative program. This includes plenary lectures, symposia covering diverse topics, poster presentations, and enjoyable social activities aimed at fostering international cooperation.
